Chapeau

In an era deepened by conflicts and growing inequality and unprecedented challenges, Youth for Change shares an enchanting and youth-led input for the Zero Draft of the Pact of the Future from the United Nations, to urge parties to engage in the rebuilding of trust and use international cooperation to tackle the biggest challenges humanity is facing. Through a concrete and diverse recommendation, this input seeks to shape a new international pact able to deliver a better ensure the protection of privacy and data security and avoid the use of the advanced technologies for terrorism purposes or illicit activities, for example.

Lastly, we believe cooperation between countries is essential to ensure that science, technology and innovation are used to contribute to a fairer, inclusive and equitable world, closing the inequality gap between countries, instead of deepening it.

Chapter IV. Youth and future generations

Developing strategies for the empowerment of multiple youths based on a culture of peace and development alliances against inequality means bringing empowerment and integrated and comprehensive approaches to discussion spaces. At Youth for Change, we believe that integrating generations and engaging young people means creating a world made possible by change.

® Empowerment of Multiple Youths:

Inclusion and Diversity Creating inclusive spaces that recognize and respect the diversity of experiences, identities and perspectives of young people from different cultures and countries.

Training and Skills Offer training programs that develop practical skills, leadership and entrepreneurship among the different youth, opening up spaces for discussion and problem-solving.

® Cultural Exchange and Culture of Peace:

Facilitate the development of cultural programs between nations in underdeveloped territories that promote mutual understanding, tolerance and the building of bridges between different communities.

Peace Education: Integrate educational curricula that emphasize conflict resolution, dialogue and the promotion of a culture of peace.

® Youth in Spaces of Power and Global Discussions:

Quotas and Active Participation Establish policies that guarantee the active representation of young people in decision-making bodies and spaces for global discussion on a larger scale, bringing strategies of responsibility and action to every young person on the planet, every person has the capacity to be a transforming agent.

Conferences and Forums Facilitate conferences and forums that allow young to enhance transparency.

- ® Collaborative Action: Commit to active collaboration with international bodies, governments, and youth networks to foster a culture of dialogue and cooperation for positive global governance.
