The World Health Organization (WHO) and the Alliance for Health Policy and Systems Research cordially invite you to a panel discussion at CSW54.

3 March 2010, New York

What would it take to make health systems work better for women?

The 54th session of the Commission on the Status of Women (CSW54) will undertake a fifteen-year review of the implementation of the Beijing Declaration and Platform for Action. This panel discussion at CSW54 will take forward the evidence of the global WHO report "Women and health: today's evidence tomorrow's agenda" with a view to helping shape a shared agenda for women's health. In particular, it will focus on the need to strengthen health systems so that they are better geared to meet women's needs from birth to older age - in terms of access, coverage and responsiveness. You will hear about options forward, emerging from the evidence, and we look forward to your insights and inputs.
